Sales pitch with nothing but adjectives

By Austin Henley

In my 7 years of college, I have only found 2 textbooks that I can not stand. This is one of them.

The book is written as if it is a sales pitch from a used car salesman. Read the first few pages and you will realize it is nothing but adjectives. Adjective, adjective, adjective. He also talks about everything from such a high-level it is impossible to tell what he is talking about.

He should be writing poetry or selling cars, not writing technical books.

A complete collection of all the buzz words around cloud

By Wiebe Niehof

This book was given to me, so at least I didn't pay 80 dollars for it.

This book is horrible. All the buzz words and more are in it. A lot of chapters and text, but not a single line that actually tells or teaches you something.

I read around 100 pages of it and skipped several chapters to see if things get better later on. But they don't.
