A classical text for underground excavation design

By Studio Pietrangeli

Prof. Hoek is probably currently the "master" of rock mechanics having not only invented many applied theories (including Hoek-Brown criteria) but also being a well known international consultant.

Therefore in this book you can find both the theoretical aspects and the practical applications.

I strongly suggest it for any professional involved in the field.

A classic into geotechnical references. Evert Hoek is the most important author in this technical area

Poor kindle version

By Rob Joswel

The kindle version has many tables and graphics that are completely unreadable, even on a large computer screen (forget about using a kindle).
